LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Making Flour.

The Winnemucca Flouring Mills are now running steadily and making flour that cannot be excelled in any country. The new machinery recently put in the mills embraces all the recent improvements for manufacturing flour, and henceforth the brands made there will command a premium in the markets of Nevada.

Delivering Trees.

A. S. Johnson, who has been taking orders for fruit and ornamental trees in Idaho and Northern Nevada, disposed of $10,000 worth of trees in the northern country and is now here making arrangements to deliver them.

Stealing Machinery.

It is reported that the engine was stolen out of the Fairmont mill last night, and that the officers are endeavoring to find out where it was taken to. The mill is under attachment and advertised to be sold by the Sheriff.

District Court.

There was an evening session of the District Court last evening, to hear the evidence in the water suit between B. Riconzone and David Abel, which is being tried without a jury.

The Tiger.

The "tiger" has again been uncaged at the Capital Saloon, and is now on exhibition every evening.

The Dramatic Society.

Members of Winnemucca Dramatic Society will meet at Centennial Hall at 7:30 o'clock this evening. Please bring all books of "The Last Leaf." By order of the Manager.

"MADAME MUSTACHE."

A Well-known Gambler Commits Suicide in Bodie. [Eureka Sentinel.]

The San Francisco Chronicle, of the 9th, contains the following dispatch from Bodie: "The dead body of a woman was found this morning about two miles south of Bodie, on the Bridgeport road. It was lying in the sagebrush about 100 yards from the path. The body was identified as that of Madame Dumont, familiarly known as "Madame Mustache" in almost every mining camp from Utah and Idaho to California. She was a French woman, very quiet and inoffensive, but with a very strong propensity for gambling. Her favorite game was "twenty-one," which she has dealt for many years. It seems that, her bank running low, she borrowed $300 of a friend, and, with her own funds, opened a faro bank. It lasted but a few hours, when it was broken. She said not a word to any person, but wandered to the place mentioned above, where, with her dead body, was discovered an empty poison vial, which told the tale of suicide. She left a letter for the Public Administrator, the substance of which was that she was tired of life, and containing directions for the disposition of her effects. The Chronicle says that for twenty-one years she has been a familiar character to the shifting population of the mining camps of the Pacific Coast. From the mines of British Columbia to those of California, and as far east as the Black Hills, the restless little French woman has followed the uncertain growth of mining camps, always pursuing her profession of gambling. She possessed a peculiar power over even the roughest of her customers. One time, in Pioche, the room in which she was dealing her game became filled with a noisy, quarreling crowd of miners, maddened with drink and flourishing pistols, evidently bound to have a free fight. The barkeepers and faro dealers were fruitlessly endeavoring to quiet the crowd, when Madame Dumont, observing their dismay, quietly approached the noisiest, and laughingly reproving them for ungallant conduct, succeeded in clearing the room and avoiding a bloody row. Among the sporting fraternity she was chiefly admired for her "rustling" qualities. Earning in one camp several thousand dollars, she invested it in a California farm. She had been frequently heard to express a desire to own and pass the rest of her life in quiet, in a home of her own. For a number of years she expended all of her winnings on the improvement of her farm. A few years ago she married a man in a mining town in Eastern Nevada, and to him turned over her California property, placing him in charge of it, and remitting to him all of her earnings. The husband proved a worthless man, and after squandering all of her earnings, is supposed to have deserted her. Since then her history has been a repetition of her early life. Of late, what was years ago only an infantile fuzz on her upper lip, developed into a growth of unusual proportions for a woman, and hence her sobriquet, Madame Mustache.

Assessable Property in Elko County.

The Independent has the following relative to the tax roll in Elko county: The assessment on real and personal property in Elko county last year aggregated $3,124,216, but the roll for the present year will fall about $100,000 short of the above figures. This was to have been expected. The heavy falling off of business at this and other places in the county, and consequent decline in real estate, together with an absence of the usual auxiliary of valuable stocks of goods in business houses, without any material advancement in the way of business or improvement in other localities, must necessarily have produced this result.

Musical Rehearsal.

The Choir of the Presbyterian Church will give a public musical rehearsal at Centennial Hall at 7 o'clock this evening to which everybody is invited.

Ice Formed.

This morning was the coldest of the season. Ice formed in several places in town where water was exposed.

Cool Nights.

The nights and mornings are refreshingly cool, and heavy coats and warm stoves are comfortable.

THE PEACE DISTURBERS.

Both Acquitted and One Rearrested.

Justice Osborn's Court presented a lively appearance yesterday afternoon. The two young men from Bodie who were arrested upon a charge of having been boisterously drunk and abusive on the emigrant train which arrived here from the West on Wednesday evening, were up for trial. After some difficulty in procuring a jury, eight men were empaneled to try the case. The defendants, whose names were ascertained to be R. V. Lee and C. A. Cummings, pleaded not guilty. They were respectable and intelligent looking young men, and the evidence showed conclusively that Cummings had in no sense violated the law. It was shown, however, that Lee was intoxicated, and treated everybody who would drink, in the car which he rode. He sang ribald songs, and had a high old time generally, but the only offense which the evidence proved he committed, was that of getting on top of the cars, and defying a brakeman to make him get down. As this was a violation of the rules of the railroad company rather than of the laws of Nevada, the jury found him not guilty. He was immediately rearrested for an offense committed at Mill City, to which he pleaded guilty, and was fined $25, after paying which he left on the next train.

The London Mechanic shows what is done in England in the way of speed on railroads. It says that engines on the Bristol and Exeter Railroad have attained the speed of 80 miles an hour, and in one instance the rate was 81.1 miles an hour. This engine had single drivers, 9 feet; wheels of leading and trailing bogies, 4 feet; cylinders, 17 by 24.

There are public school houses in every county in Arkansas, the valuation amounting to upward of $200,000. The public school taxes in 1877, amounted to $226,000. There are 875 teachers employed in the public free schools. The school population of the State between the ages of six and twenty-one is 142,616 white and 43,516 colored.

Praise talent and beauty whenever you find it; to some people it is the only incentive to effort. Praise your children if they deserve it, and don't be afraid it will make them conceited. Merited compliments serve rather to make persons satisfied with themselves and agreeable to others than vain with overbearing.

Three convicts, John Eve, John Creed and Peter Granville, escaped from San Quentin on Monday in a sail boat. All were trusties. Five hundred dollars reward is offered for any one of them.

Preparations for the reception of General Grant are being carried on vigorously in San Francisco. It is intended to make the demonstration the most imposing ever witnessed in the city.

The United States Grand Jury at San Francisco has found a true bill against E. J. (Lucky) Baldwin, for defrauding the Government by selling unstamped liquors at his distillery in Los Angeles.

A newspaper correspondent writes: "There is not a solitary beautiful woman in San Francisco." We suppose the wag means they are all married.

A party of tourists sought accommodation of a Quakeress in Nantucket. She said: "I can give thee all board, but thee must sleep in Coffin's." They went away hastily.

The display at the California State Fair, now being held at Sacramento, is said to be equal in all, and superior in many respects to that of former years.

The Pennsylvania greenbackers are trying the still hunt plan of running the campaign this year. They expect to poll 60,000.

Captain Jenks, the husband of Mrs. Agnes Jenks of Louisiana fame, is now in Washington City. He is engaged in the sailing trade between New Orleans and South America. He declares that personally he has secured no reward from the Administration for his wife's devotion to the cause of Hayes. This is base ingratitude on the part of the powers that be. John Sherman should immediately appoint him a special Revenue Agent for the Pacific Coast, with a good round salary and traveling expenses.

The editor of the Lyon County Times has been deceived so often by reports of strikes in the Comstock mines that he has become a confirmed skeptic. He discredits the reports published relative to that meteor last Friday evening, because it was not seen at Silver City, and accuses the Ogden, Elko, Tuscarora, Austin, Winnemucca, Reno and Virginia City papers of "romancing."

It will take the official returns to determine whether Davis the Republican candidate for Governor of Maine has been elected by the people. The returns, however, indicate the election of a sufficient number of Republican Senators to elect him in the event of his not getting a majority of the popular vote.

Is Your Life Worth Ten Cents.

Sickness prevails everywhere, and everybody complains of some disease during their life. When sick, the object is to get well; now to say plainly that no person in this world that is suffering from Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and its effects, such as Indigestion, Costiveness, Sick Headache, Sour Stomach, Heart Burn, Palpitation of the Heart, Depressed Spirits, Billiousness, etc., can take GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER without getting relief and cure. If you doubt this go to your druggist and get a sample bottle for ten cents and try it. Regular size 75 cts. Two doses will relieve you.

Lost.

A black beaver cloth cloak trimmed with black fur and black crochet buttons, was lost on August 20th, between Buffalo Station and Cane Springs, on the Idaho road. I will pay a liberal reward to the finder upon delivery of the cloak at the SILVER STATE office or at Snapp's Station.
